THE MONTHLY NEWSLETTER OF
THE STARK COUNTY LAW LIBRARY

Celebrate National Law Week with These Recommended Reads

This year National Law Week (April 26th - May 2nd) coincides with the 800th anniversary of the Magna Carta, the iconic document that laid the early foundation for the individual liberties that were later adopted by the American Constitution. In fact, some of the most basic tenants of our modern legal system, like the right to due process and a trial by jury, can be traced back to the Magna Carta.

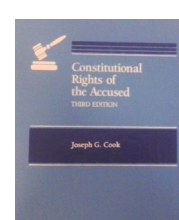

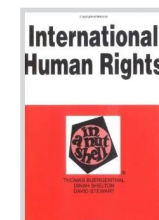

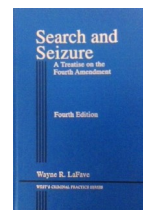

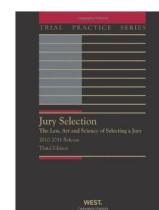

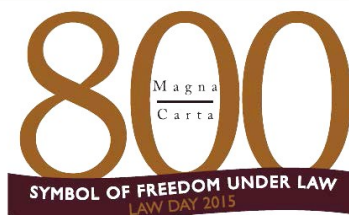

The law library has lots of books available that elaborate on the Magna Carta's founding principles. What better way to celebrate Law Week than to rediscover these core legal values? Try picking up one of the following recommended titles:

- Jury Selection: The Law, Art, and Science of Select- ing a Jury, KF8979 .J67

- Constitutional Rights of the Accused, KF9635 .C66
- International Human Rights in a Nutshell, K3240.4 .B84
- Search and Seizure: A Treatise on the Fourth Amendment, KF9630 .L26

For further reading, the Law Library of Congress blog, In Custodia Legis, has posted extensively on the history and relevance of the Magna Carta: <http://blogs.loc.gov/law/>. The Law Library of Congress has also produced an online Law Day research guide, which includes links to every annual presidential Law Day proclamation: <http://www.loc.gov/law/help/commemorative-observations/law-day.php>

7 Legal Podcasts with a unique perspective

Whether you're new to the world of podcasts or have just never ventured beyond the standards, there has never been a wider selection of listening options available—especially when it comes to legal podcasts (thanks in part to the mega success of Serial).

Profiled below are 7 podcasts with informative and entertaining perspectives on lawyering and the law that are sure to have you hanging on every word.

Criminal: Fans of Serial and/or Law and Order will find intriguing these short stories told by victims and perpetrators of crimes. Podcasts are posted monthly at: <http://thisiscriminal.com/who/>

CRIMINAL

Life of the Law: Fans of NPR and "micro-reporting" will enjoy these investigative stories about legal topics ranging from midwifery to legal advertising. Posted monthly at: <http://www.lifeofthelaw.org/>

Lawyerist Podcast: Weekly show that interviews prominent lawyers and answers questions about the practice of law at: <https://lawyerist.com/podcast/>

ABA Journal: Modern Law Library: Distinguished legal authors discuss law-related events and theories. Posted monthly at: <http://legaltalknetwork.com/podcasts/aba-journal-modern-law-library/>

I Am the Law: Commentaries from legal professionals about what they do and how they attained their positions. Provides insight into what lawyers do on a "day-to-day" basis. Posted weekly at: <http://www.istradio.com/iatl/>

Legal Toolkit: Covers technology tools and tips from an overview of speech recognition and dictation software to PowerPoint presentation advice. Posted monthly at: <http://legaltalknetwork.com/podcasts/digital-edge/>

Judge John Hodgman: For fun, listen to this judge render decisions on important questions such as whether chili is a soup or stew. Posted weekly at: <http://www.maximumfun.org/shows/judge-john-hodgman>

The Results Are In. . .

Thanks to the fourteen people who completed a library subscriber survey form last month! (There were 390 people contacted, and the library would still welcome input from the other 376.) We greatly appreciate your feedback and look forward to finding new ways to innovate our services and resource selection to continue meeting your legal research and reference needs.

Below are some of the survey response trends we've noted so far:

- ☒ A majority of the respondents are interested in using e-books, but would like the library to retain print titles.
- ☒ Westlaw is the most used computer resource with 10 of the respondents using it in the library.
- ☒ One suggestion was to include in the newsletter short articles by attorneys regarding changes in the law. Volunteers to do this would be welcome. Please email inform@starkcountyohio.gov.
